The Gower Peninsula was designated as the UK's first Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) in 1956 and Hill House provides an ideal base for visiting and exploring all of Gower's beaches, attractions and amenities.

Hill House is located on a very quiet no through lane on the western edge of the village of Llanrhidian and it provides a tranquil rural setting with large secluded gardens and magnificent views across open fields and the salt marshes of the Burry Estuary.

There are four large airy bedrooms; two double and one triple with three single beds on the first floor and a twin bedroom on the ground floor with direct access to the drive, terrace and gardens.

There are two sitting rooms, the first has an open fire and both are equipped with freeview digital TV (+ DVD & VHS in the first sitting room).

Large fully equipped farmhouse kitchen with two separate dining tables that can be combined for family meals

Upstairs bathroom with shower handset & WC and downstairs shower room & WC.

The driveway provides off road parking for several cars, luggage or boat trailer and the grounds include front and side lawns, south facing sun terrace and a large rear garden (not shown) suitable for ball and racquet games.

Hill House provides all the facilities that you would expect for a very comfortable holiday.
